1. Can I select my roommates for 2019-2020?

YES! Housing and Residence Life does not automatically assign roommates for students. The power to choose is in your hands.

2. How can I search for and select roommates?

You may search for roommates by first or last name, by answers to specific profile questions or our system can suggest roommates based on your profile.

3. Will you provide contact information for potential roommates?

We are unable to share student's contact information. However, you can message people that you are interested in rooming with through the Housing Portal.

4. How do I request someone as a roommate?

Once you have decided who you want to room with next year, you should designate one person to create your “Roommate Group” in the Housing Portal. When a roommate request is received, it must be accepted or declined within seven days, or a new invitation will need to be sent.

5. How do you provide information about yourself for potential roommates?

In the Housing Application, there is a page titled “My Profile” with a box where you can type a brief description of yourself for others to see. A lot of students will put their social media handles in here as well.

6. When Phase 3 (Room Selection) opens how do I make sure all of my roommates are in the same unit?

When Phase 3 opens, we will assign a timeslot for you to choose a room. When your timeslot opens up, you can find a room for yourself and then place each of your roommates in the same unit at the same time. You may have the person in your group with the earliest timeslot make the room selections for your entire roommate group.

7. Why can’t I see my friend as a potential roommate?

There are a few reasons why you cannot see someone. Either your friend has not completed Phase 1 of the Housing Application, they are classified as a student on a different campus, or they have already accepted a roommate group request.

8. How many roommates can I select?

Each roommate group is limited to four people so you can choose a maximum of three potential roommates.

9. What if I don’t find someone I want as a roommate?

When Phase 3 opens, you will select a room and will end up with whoever chooses the other rooms within your unit.

10. Can I change roommates after I select a room in Phase 3?

We have limited availability to change roommates once rooms are selected. Please take your time with Phase 2 and make sure to choose roommates you believe will be compatible.
